

I am firmly against the further consolidation of media ownership for any reason whatsoever, and particularly for the sole benefit of those who profit from it financially. We already have far too few voices able to be heard in this country. This change in regulation is promoted by the most dishonorable and dishonest lack of discourse I can imagine. Why have there not been public meetings across the country to address this critical issue? Could it be that the FCC Chairman and some members have no concern about fair and open exchange and are only interested in lining their friends pockets (if not their own?) Disgusting. Do not loosen regulations now in effect. Hold public hearings!
